

23 December 2022      Thiess awarded two-year extension on US mining services contract

Thiess is pleased to announce a two-year extension to its first US contract for mining services at a hard rock mine in Colorado.

The contract, which commenced in 2021, will now continue through to the end of 2024. Under the extension, Thiess will continue providing integrated mining services through an alliance style contract.

Thiess Executive Chair & CEO Michael Wright said: “We are very pleased our client has awarded us this extension, which serves as recognition of our team’s ability to deliver innovative mining solutions and create lasting value for our clients across diverse commodities and geographies.”

“We look forward to further collaborating with our client to safely position their operation for optimal efficiency and productivity, as we expand our presence in North America.”

Executive General Manager – Americas Darrell White said: “Our North American team is motivated by the confidence that our client has shown in Thiess, by extending and expanding the integration of our joint mining operations. We’re thrilled to have the opportunity to assist our client in sustainably delivering a resource that is critical to the US and global economies.”

Thiess has operated in the Americas since 2015, applying leading resource solutions with a safety-first culture and commitment to client outcomes.

Thiess’ United States business, established in November 2021, is based in Salt Lake City, Utah.
